

The Watershed Academy Presents...

A New Interactive Learning Experience

2006 Webcast Seminars

EPA sponsors monthly Webcasts to offer free training and information for watershed practitioners from around the globe. These two-hour audio Web broadcasts build local capacity and support the watershed pillar of EPA's Sustainable Water Infrastructure Initiative by helping watershed organizations, agencies, municipalities, and private industry create more sustainable communities using a coordinated watershed approach.

Eastern: 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm    Central: 12:00 pm – 2:00 pm    Mountain: 11:00 am – 1:00 pm    Pacific: 10:00 am – 12:00 pm

Getting Started in Volunteer Water Quality Monitoring

Linda Green, URI Watershed Watch and Danielle Donkersloot, New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection

Learn how to start a volunteer water quality program by using this step-by-step process. This session will provide you with questions to ponder, success stories, and where to find the best resources. Registration for this Webcast will open on Oct. 4.

How to Register

Registration is available on a first-come/first-served basis and opens approximately one week prior to each seminar at www.clu-in.org/live. Each Webcast includes a Web-based slide presentation with a companion audio portion that can be accessed either by phone or by streaming audio. Because of the growing popularity of these Webcasts, we encourage participants to reserve a conference room and invite others. Audio versions of all past Webcasts can be accessed at www.epa.gov/watershedwebcasts. If you have questions, visit www.clu-in.org/live or contact Ron Ohrel at ron.ohrel@tetrattech-ffx.com. In addition to Webcasts, the Watershed Academy sponsors live classroom training and on-line distance learning modules through the Watershed Academy Web at www.epa.gov/watertrain. For more information and to download past Webcasts, visit www.epa.gov/watershedwebcasts.
